Are We There Yet?

A family comedy "Are We There Yet?," Nick, a smooth operator, is trying to land a date with Suzanne. Problem is Suzanne, a divorcee, is stuck working in Vancouver and miserable because she misses her kids. Seizing the opportunity, Nick gallantly offers to make her wish come true - and his own in the process - by bringing seven-year-old Kevin and eleven-year-old Lindsey up from Portland, Oregon to be reunited with their mom.

What Nick doesn't know is that Suzanne's children think that no man is good enough for their mom and will do everything they can to make the trip a nightmare for him. Fasten your seat belts, it's going to be a bumpy ride.

Fat Albert

In the film, the characters of Cosby's famous cartoon series find themselves in human form when they tumble out of their television show and end up in the real world. As Fat Albert tries to help young Doris win some friends, he falls in love with her sister Lauri - and everyone gets nervous that not only will his famous problemsolving talent fail him, but that he'll want to stay in the real world.

Ray

"Ray" is the never-before-told, musical biographical drama of American legend Ray Charles. Charles went blind at the age of seven shortly after witnessing his younger brother's accidental death. Charles found his calling and his gift behind a piano keyboard. As he revolutionized the way people appreciated music, he simultaneously fought segregation in the very clubs that launched him and championed artists rights within the corporate music business.

"Ray" provides an unflinching portrait of Charles' musical genius as he overcomes drug addiction while transforming into one of this country's most-beloved performers.
